HEADQUARTERS OF THE SHORT LINE NOT TO BE MOVED

Offices of the Oregon Short Line will not be moved from Salt Lake to Omaha, according to W. H. Bancroft, vice president and general manager of the company. The repeated rumors have been heard for years, and many who are not familiar with the situation have clamored for information on the subject. When seen yesterday and asked regarding the rumor, Mr. Bancroft said: "Such action has never been considered by the management of the company. There is no reason why the headquarters of the Oregon Short Line should be anywhere besides where they now are. Rumors regarding moving them to Omaha are ridiculous and absolutely without foundation."

of the patriotic hymn "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" by the graduates of 1914 and the entire student body. Rev. P. M. Cushman, who has been ill for the past few weeks, was present and his oldtime friends and admirers at Sacred Heart welcomed him right heartily. In a few words he congratulated the young performers on the very unique program which had afforded all present such a pleasant and instructive afternoon, and concluded by wishing all a very bright and happy Thanksgiving.

UNION SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The First Presbyterian church was decorated with roses and chrysanthemums for the Union Thanksgiving services today. The plan of having the ministers act as ushers was carried out.

The musical numbers were given with such skill and feeling as to form a distinctive part of the service. The violin obligato part for Steiner's Thanksgiving song, "Blessing," was written for the author by Mr. Skelton of Salt Lake. Miss Dwyer's two solos were especially adapted for a Thanksgiving service. Miss Pierce and Hamill played with their usual skill.

The praise selections were given as follows:

Prelude..... Bach
Miss Louise Pierce
Contralto Solo—"Evening and Morning"..... Max Sticker
Miss Dwyer
Violin Offertory—"Dialogue"..... Helmund
Miss Beatrice Hamill
Contralto Solo—"Blessing"..... Steiner
Miss Dwyer

Violin Obligato, Miss Hamill
Contralto Solo—"Oh, Love Divine"..... Nevin
Miss Dwyer

Postlude..... Bendel
Miss Pierce

Sermon of the Day.

"The Jews were a musical people. The great temple choir contained four thousand voices and was divided into three divisions, led by Herman Asaph and Jeduthun. They led the service antiphonally from the great galleries and the congregation joined in the responses. This was supported by an orchestra of many pieces. There were times, however, when the message of the psalm called for thought and meditation and at such times the word Selah denoted a pause in the voices while the orchestra continued with sympathetic tones."

"Oh, let the nations be glad and sing for joy, for thou, O God, shalt judge the people with equity and lead the nations upon the earth. Selah."

"Here let all pause and meditate upon the great truth. Here, today, let us pause and consider thoughtfully this message which is the thought for today."

"There is a nation wide call to thank God today because of the unbounded prosperity of our land. If some have not days of real plenty, it is because of an unjust distribution and not because of a lack of supply. If some children and aged are compelled to toil and if men here and there have environment that is not conducive to health, it is not because the Lord has not amply provided. Just because some live in foul air is no reason to deny the abundance of divine providence in surrounding earth with an abundance. Prosperity is the general condition of the day and it is not man-made prosperity, either. It is the wealth of the fields, forests and mines. God stored wealth that he has given unto man and from a time of abundance we can well draw and meditate upon the great goodness of the love that so richly gave it all."

"The moral conditions, all views to the contrary notwithstanding, call for our glad praise. The nation is being awakened to new standards. Men are being held to the same standards of chastity as women. Temperance is no longer the theme of the few. It is not enough now to secure political office; we also demand that it be secured rightly. The care that is being given to the children in court, in factory, and at play, points to an awakened conscience. The practical appreciation of the aged and of the mothers in rendering unto them not only fair sounding words of praise but also substantial monetary tokens and pensions, as well as a new standard of national stewardship. The law makers' recognition of the needs of the man as well as of the dollar is another dawning of new trends. Some time ago one who followed the older standard of national responsibility spoke of the newer trends in the sermon on the Mount into politics. Well, be it so. If any such a dream be ever possible, it will be a glorious condition for the race of men."

"The spiritual conditions call for our gratitude today. The church is more a live, practical factor in the world today than ever. Once her courts were more thronged on Sundays; maybe, but there were not so many churches to fill. Now the church is more a power in active and everyday life. It is touching more on daily living than ever before. We look to results for the ultimate test of power and the churches are getting them today. When we consider the wonderful way in which the Word of God is being printed and read, we believe that it is the truth of the world, can only rejoice, for, as the seed is sown, the harvest must follow. The church affield is even more a home of praise than the church at home. The new China is but an example. But, say some, wickedness is so rampant and vice so bold today. So answer, yes, and what is more, you cannot show me an age in which wickedness was less rampant or vice less bold. The city life has ever been a problem. The large town has ever been a stronghold. Many years ago the cities of the world were wise in criticizing the present, but unfair in their comparisons with the past because they are not well informed of that past. Even in matters of woman's dress we deem the present much better than so much that we have known. We live in a day of publicity and the deeds of darkness are heralded on morning's page. But withal, the world has much of spiritual and moral advance to thank God for today.

"Give me," says Carlyle, "the man who sings at his work." The grace of joy and praise is one of the best sources of human endurance. The joy of the Lord has been more than one man's strength and power. The French revolution was won by a song. Luther used the power of song mightily in his great revival. Life today is a grim battle for many a person, a battle with disease, with temptation, with want, or a struggle against unpleasant environment. We need this grace of Thanksgiving all through the year. The Parisian life is called gay, but it is not joyous. It is entertainment purposed for joy and is hollow, mocking, deadening, false. It is the life of the stage and is for effect. More suicides occur in Paris than most any other city because of its lack of real, deep, strength-giving joy that wells up from a conviction of truth. So long as America has cause for deep gratefulness and is ready to voice that gratitude unto God, America will be the hope of the oppressed of the nations."

"The great prosperity of our day have turned many away from God but a few months of drought or a few days of rain bring them again to him in facts and petitions for mercy. May we in ample prosperity remember him with joy. Selah!"

POPULARITY OF JOB INSURANCE

Office Employees Anxious to Profit from Opportunity to Adopt Protection Policy.

It is said that in some cities the complaints from employers of large office forces have resulted in a new form of insurance, which protects the toilers who live in daily fear of losing employment.

It is thought that employment insurance will not only make many happy homes, but do away with the army of the unemployed.

The Standard is offering "Job Insurance" to the general public in the form of a big book on the new waterway. Whatever position you hold you must keep up with the times if you would advance. Better still, you should keep ahead of the profession. The latest and greatest new knowledge concerns the Panama canal. To know about this modern wonder is to have something "up your sleeve" that will add to your "market value."

"Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose" is a great big book full of this new knowledge, covering every detail from Balboa's time to today—teeming with useful information concerning the country and the people, with the complete story of the great canal, its history, purpose and promise. Within a short time, when the world's shipping will be entirely changed by this new "short cut," where is the office employee that will not be benefited by having all the knowledge to be known on this subject?

This book that you cannot buy or get by any other means, will be given to you under the conditions found in the Panama certificate printed elsewhere in this issue. Clip that certificate and present it with five others as soon as possible, for the distribution is soon to be withdrawn.

Paster J. D. Alder of the Seventh-day Adventist church, after which an informal luncheon was served.

The bride and groom left on the 5:40 train for San Francisco, where they will spend their honeymoon.

MOVES-GEIGER
Yesterday in Salt Lake City, Miss Grace Moyes and Christian S. Geiger both of Ogden, were quietly married.

Miss Moyes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Moyes of 3149 Adams avenue and for several years has been employed at the W. H. Wright & Sons company as a clerk. She has numerous friends both in the business and social world who tender their most hearty congratulations.

Mr. Geiger of the firm of Lenze & Geiger is well known in Ogden, where his parents reside at 2040 Jefferson avenue. A host of friends wish him happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Geiger will make their home in this city.

MARRIED LAST EVENING
Last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pidecock, 2259 Adams avenue, Miss Amy Pidecock and Albert L. White were united in marriage, by the Reverend John Edward Carver.

The ceremony was performed promptly at 6 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. White will make their home in Salt Lake City.

DANCING PARTY

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Rich and their daughter, Miss Gladys Rich, have issued invitations for a dancing party to be given Monday, December 8, in the Colonial hall.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY
Saturday afternoon the ladies of the Historical society will meet with Mrs. F. L. Voorhees at her home, 2201 Jefferson avenue.

Reverend Fleetwood will lecture on the Immanuel Movement.

Members are urged to be prompt as the lecture begins at 3 o'clock.

CARPENTERS HAD AN EVENING OF REAL ENJOYMENT

The annual ball of the local Carpenters union was given in the new Colonial hall last night and proved to be one of the best planned social affairs of the season.

The decorative scheme was entirely new and in it were used several hundred yards of shavings, in long curls, hung from the rafters that held the wire canopy that covers the hall. Over each of the many large incandescent light globes was a dome made of wood and twenty-penny nails. In the hallway over the entrance were draped large American flags.

The souvenir programs were well worth keeping and contained, as a cover design, the emblem of the Carpenters union with the words, "With the carpenters at the new Colonial Thanksgiving eve, 1913." The first page contained the names of the committees, the second page the dance program and the third page was the luncheon card, with the menu in the middle, and at the bottom was the picture of a turkey with the word "Tomorrow" underneath. On the back cover was a steel engraving of the new David Eccles building.

The dance program consisted of 28 numbers and the excellent music by Crawford's orchestra made each number a feature.

The refreshment feature was a banquet of large proportions and shared honors with the dance in the enjoyment of all the guests. The banquet was served in the basement and was termed a "shingle lunch." The shingles used in lieu of plates were made of Oregon pine, specially imported for the purpose, and the luncheon was prepared and served by D. F. Beauchamp, Ed Lundgren and A. W. Kingsbury, the well known attaches of the Elite Cafe, who attended to the service through the courtesy of Messrs. Blosser and Foley.

MR. AND MRS. R. C. BRIDGE.

A complete cooking outfit for campers, folding compactly enough to be carried in a coat pocket, has been invented.

Thanksgiving Appreciation

WE HAVE much cause for rejoicing at this season of Thanksgiving. Ogden is a prosperous city and we have shared in the general prosperity. It has been one of the ruling principles of our business to give our patrons high-class goods and still maintain low prices. That the prosperity of our patrons may continue is the wish of Ogden's Largest Grocery Institution.
